Survey Highlights

- Funding Environment improve: 54% of respondents who attempted to fundraise in last 12 months had a favourable experience (up from 37% in 2016) but 56% feel that it will be challenging in 2018.
- Buy-outs/M&A more likely Exit scenarios v/s IPO: 46% of respondents (up from 30%) felt that M&A would be preferred mode for exit compared to 40% who believe IPO will be a preferable exit route.
- Respondents have consistently, for two annual surveys, rated emergence of start-ups with more robust business models and more exit activity as most likely to improve investor sentiment.
- The majority of early stage & late stage start-ups stated Growth as their primary focus area in 2018, while mid-stage start-ups are focusing more on Profitability v/s Growth.
- Raising funding & talent management continue to be the top challenges for respondents, third year in a row. Customer acquisition/churn also highlighted as a key challenge this year.
- AI, Blockchain, AR/VR and Fintech were highlighted as over hyped sectors and likely to be hot in 2018.
- Agri-Tech, Logistics and Content were voted as most under-hyped sectors.
- 45% of all respondents had women in leadership positions at their start-ups, up from 42% in 2016 and 33% in 2015.
- Respondents believe that Government's support to improve tax policies, facilitate cheaper financing and increase investments in digital infrastructure will make the start-up eco-system more attractive.
- GST had net negative impact than positive but Logistics/Enterprise Tech start-ups saw benefits of GST.
- Flipkart, SpaceX and Ola emerge as favourite start-ups among Indian founders. Elon Musk was the respondent's favourite founder, followed by Jeff Bezos. Among Indian founders, Mukesh Bansal & Vijay Shekhar Sharma were voted the most admired founders.

Fundraising

How was your funding experience in the last 12 months?
